

Corona Overview:

It's a big ask for a vehicle wrecking yard to actively recycle close to 90% of an end of life vehicle. The Adelaide, South Australia based U-Pull-It branded dismantling yards are one of the very few that can boast such an environmentally friendly achievement. They certainly go above and beyond when it comes to special and rare vehicles like this Corona RT140 sedan as well. They not only recognize the importance and rarity of older vehicles such as the Corona, but they actively attempt to on-sell them before they are placed into a specialized 'Memory Lane' dismantling isle reserved exclusively for older hard to get vehicles.

This particular Corona was actually driven to one of the three U-Pull-It yards, and the staff immediately recognized the overall condition was far too good to be dismantled. As such the vehicle has now been submitted to the auction to be saved, to be repurposed, and to be given another chance to become someone's pride and joy.

The overall condition of the Corona is best described as original/good. The vehicle retains all the original parts, is unmodified and appears to be a low KM, and well maintained, and is ready for someone to love as their next project. Older Toyota RWD vehicles are become highly prized, with drift competitors chewing through available stocks with gusto. Street orientated vehicles are now sought after and quickly snapped up as they are highly collectable as stocks dwindle.

Minor/mild restoration is required, with the vehicle currently in a complete rolling and short distance running state.
